Melbourne, 20 June 2022 PointsBet Holdings Limited (ASX:PBH; OTCQX:PBTHF) (the “Company” or “PointsBet”) is pleased to advise that it has secured a A$94.16 million investment from SIG Sports Investment Corp. (“SIG Sports”), a member of the Susquehanna International Group of Companies (“SIG”). Privately owned SIG is headquartered in Pennsylvania, USA and is one of the largest proprietary financial trading firms in the world, with additional business verticals encompassing derivatives market making, institutional brokerage, private equity, sports analytics and structured capital.

In accordance with the terms of a subscription agreement (the “Subscription Agreement”), PointsBet will issue 38,750,000 shares to SIG Sports at a price of A$2.43 per share, representing a 15% premium compared to the 5-day volume weighted average price (“VWAP”) to 17 June 2022.

The new shares will be issued under the Company’s existing placement capacity and are expected to be quoted on or around 23 June 2022.

Upon issuance, this investment will represent 12.8% of the Company’s issued capital, with SIG Sports becoming the Company’s largest shareholder.

There is no change to the Company’s Board as a result of the equity placement, and notifications will be provided to the Company’s gaming regulators as required.

The Subscription Agreement imposes certain restrictions on PointsBet and SIG Sports as set out in Appendix A.

Commenting on the investment, SIG Co-founder and Managing Director Mr. Jeff Yass said: “After several years of thoroughly evaluating the North American sports betting market for the right partner, SIG Sports is pleased to have made what we consider to be a long-term investment in PointsBet. We have been following their journey for some time and have developed a very positive view of the overall business operations and the capability of the PointsBet leadership team. We believe PointsBet has great potential for future growth and success in the North American sports betting market and SIG has both the analytics and capital to help realize that potential.”

PointsBet Chairman Mr. Brett Paton said: “We are delighted to pair up with a visionary investor which has committed ongoing support and is eminently qualified in analytical trading in financial markets, and now in sports. The cultural alignment between both organisations is strong, and this investment will assist with expanding and growing our North American operations as we seek to lead in in-play betting and enhancing the overall customer experience.”

Acceleration of Sports Analytics and Quantitative Modelling Capabilities

The Company also announces that its wholly owned subsidiary, PointsBet Europe Holdings Limited, formerly Banach Technology Limited (“PBE”), has entered into an exploratory agreement with Nellie Analytics, a member of SIG, pursuant to which Nellie Analytics will provide agreed exclusive sports analytical services (the “Exploratory Services”) to PBE at nil cost for a period of nine (9) months (the “Exploratory Term”).

During the Exploratory Term, Nellie Analytics will provide PBE with sports analytics and quantitative modelling services while the parties continue to scope and develop the terms for additional services (the “Further Services”), with the intention of entering into a definitive long-term agreement (the “Definitive Agreement”). It is the intention of the parties that consideration under the Definitive Agreement will be provided to Nellie Analytics (or its nominee) via long dated options to subscribe for PointsBet Holdings Limited shares (on terms to be agreed), or at the discretion of PBE, in cash.

Nellie Analytics currently utilizes in sports analytics the same quantitative approach that drives SIG’s success in the financial markets, bringing together expertise in mathematics, gaming, and technology. Nellie Analytics, based in Dublin Ireland, with a team of approximately 30 technologists, has built cutting-edge quantitative models and technology to trade and make markets for professional sports using trading acumen, advanced statistical forecasting models, and quantitative research.

Building upon Nellie Analytics’ capabilities, the Exploratory Services and Further Services will complement and enhance the operational capabilities of PBE and accelerate the Company’s technology roadmap as it relates to highly sophisticated risk management and trading algorithms, with a focus on in-play in the North American market.

EVERY POINT MATTERS

Both parties have agreed that should such a Definitive Agreement be reached, Nellie Analytics would provide the Further Services exclusively to PBE for a minimum of three (3) years with the ability for PBE to terminate the Definitive Agreement without cause at the end of each year of the term.

Commenting on the arrangements PointsBet Group CEO Sam Swanell commented: “Excellence in technology and trading is at the forefront of everything we do at PointsBet. In Nellie Analytics we have found another like-minded team of technologists, whose services we believe can accelerate our product led strategy and thus our right to win in the USA, Canada and Australia. In practical terms, the partnership will enable PointsBet to have more accurate lines and sharper risk management. This will flow through to our customers in the form of higher wagering limits, less price suspension, faster bet placements and improved value for bettors.”

David Pollard, SIG’s Head of Strategic Planning stated: “Since its inception, Nellie Analytics has sought to leverage SIG’s experience in quantitative modelling in financial markets and apply those lessons to creating a world-class sports analytics business particularly focused on in-play. We are thrilled to explore the possibility of applying that hard-earned knowledge to a like-minded partner’s platform. With the North American sports betting market still being in the very early innings of its development, we believe that PointsBet, with Nellie’s potential assistance, is well-positioned to capitalize on the market’s inevitable growth.”
